In the realm of finance, Grace Marie Turner stands as a formidable force, tirelessly championing the democratization of capital and financial services. Her unwavering commitment to financial inclusion has propelled her to the forefront of the industry, earning her widespread recognition as a transformative leader.

Early Life and Inspiration

Growing up immersed in the vibrant culture of Oakland, California, Grace witnessed firsthand the disparities in access to financial resources. This ignited a deep passion within her to create a more equitable financial system, where everyone has an equal opportunity to thrive.

Inspired by her community's struggles, Grace pursued a degree in Economics at the University of California, Berkeley. Her academic journey further fueled her understanding of the systemic barriers that hinder financial inclusion, particularly for underserved communities.

Breaking Barriers in Finance

After graduating, Grace embarked on a groundbreaking career in finance, determined to challenge the status quo. She joined Goldman Sachs, one of the world's leading investment banks, where she quickly rose through the ranks.

Recognizing the need for a more inclusive approach to banking, Grace co-founded the Black Women's Wealth Alliance (BWVA) in 2017. This organization aims to empower Black women by providing them with financial education, access to capital, and a platform for economic growth.

Digital Banking for All

In 2020, Grace made a bold move by leaving the traditional banking sector to pursue her entrepreneurial vision. She co-founded Daylight, a digital banking platform designed to provide accessible financial services to low-income communities.

Through Daylight, Grace is democratizing banking by eliminating fees, providing transparent and affordable financial products, and leveraging technology to reach underserved populations. Her goal is to create a financial system that truly empowers all individuals.

Investments with Impact

Grace's commitment to democratizing finance extends beyond traditional banking. She is also a leading advocate for impact investing, an approach that seeks to generate both financial and social returns.

As the founder of the CapEQ Fund, Grace invests in women-led businesses and organizations that promote economic growth and social justice. Her unwavering belief in the power of impact investing is transforming the way capital is deployed to create positive change.

Empowering Women in Finance

Grace recognizes the importance of women's leadership in the financial industry. She serves as a mentor and role model for aspiring women in finance, actively promoting their advancement and creating opportunities for them to succeed.

Grace is the co-founder of the Women's Capital Connection, a platform that connects women investors with women-led businesses. By fostering collaboration and investment in women-owned enterprises, Grace empowers women to drive economic prosperity.

Economic Justice and Equitable Growth

Grace Marie Turner's mission goes beyond democratizing finance. She is a vocal advocate for economic justice and equitable growth, recognizing that financial inclusion is a fundamental pillar for a just and inclusive society.

Grace's work has been instrumental in shaping policies and initiatives that promote financial fairness and address systemic barriers. She is a member of the FDIC Advisory Committee on Economic Inclusion, where she advises the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation on policies that impact low- and moderate-income communities.

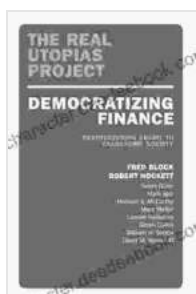

A Force for Good

Grace Marie Turner is a visionary leader who is reshaping the financial landscape for the better. Her unwavering commitment to democratizing finance, empowering women, and promoting economic justice is making a profound impact on society.

Through her trailblazing journey, Grace has inspired a new generation of financial innovators and activists who are dedicated to creating a more inclusive and equitable financial system for all.

Grace Marie Turner's relentless drive and unwavering passion for democratizing finance have earned her widespread recognition and numerous accolades. She is a recipient of the Forbes "30 Under 30" award, the NAACP "Game Changer" award, and the Harvard Business School "Social Enterprise Award."

Grace's legacy will be one of transformative leadership, innovation, and unwavering commitment to a more just and equitable financial system. Her work continues to inspire and empower individuals and communities around the world.
