Cathy Linh Che is a rising star in the fashion industry, known for her innovative and experimental designs that push the boundaries of style. Her label, Split, has gained a cult following among fashion enthusiasts and critics alike for its unique aesthetic and wearable artistry.

Early Life and Education

Che was born in Saigon, Vietnam, and moved to the United States with her family when she was a child. She grew up in the San Francisco Bay Area, where she developed a passion for art and design. After completing high school, she attended Parsons The New School for Design in New York City, where she studied fashion design.

Career

After graduating from Parsons, Che worked as a designer for various fashion brands before launching her own label, Split, in 2016. The brand's name reflects Che's design philosophy, which is based on the idea of "splitting" and reconstructing traditional garments to create something new and unexpected.

Che's designs are characterized by their bold shapes, experimental fabrics, and innovative silhouettes. She often incorporates elements of sportswear and streetwear into her work, creating a unique hybrid aesthetic that is both stylish and functional.

Recognition and Impact

Che's work has been featured in prestigious publications such as Vogue, Harper's Bazaar, and The New York Times. She has also showcased her collections at various fashion weeks, including New York Fashion Week and Paris Fashion Week.

Che has received numerous awards for her contributions to fashion, including the CFDA/Vogue Fashion Fund Award in 2018 and the Swarovski Collective Award for Emerging Talent in 2019. Her work has also been exhibited at the Museum of Modern Art in New York City.

Inspiration and Influences

Che draws inspiration from a wide range of sources, including art, architecture, and music. She is also influenced by her Vietnamese heritage and her experiences as a woman of color in the fashion industry.

Che's work often explores themes of identity, empowerment, and self-expression. She believes that fashion should be a form of personal expression and a way for people to connect with their own individuality.

Future Plans

Che is currently working on expanding her brand and developing new and innovative designs. She is also focused on using her platform to advocate for diversity and inclusion in the fashion industry.

Cathy Linh Che is a rising star in the fashion industry whose innovative and experimental designs are pushing the boundaries of style. Her work has gained a cult following among fashion enthusiasts and critics alike, and she has been recognized for her contributions to the industry. As she continues to develop her brand and explore new creative possibilities, Che is poised to make a lasting impact on the world of fashion.
